

ABOUT WOODNOTES

Woodnotes is a Finnish design company founded in 1987 by textile designer Ritva Puotila and her son Mikko Puotila. The company is still owned by its founders.

The original concept of Woodnotes' products was to combine the artistic creativity inspired by Finland's rugged nature with valuable craftsmanship and advanced technologies, utilizing basic Finnish raw materials, wood and paper. Woodnotes is the first company in the world to use paper yarn in a contemporary way in functional textiles. Ritva Puotila wanted to use paper yarn because of its properties – to make the most of its unique characteristics, not as a substitute for other materials.

The Woodnotes collection, which has expanded over the years from carpets made from paper yarn to a comprehensive concept, is augmented every year with new, relevant, and innovative products.

NEW LAUNCH
2025

"The timelessness of design is our environmental act."

Introducing The Tuuli Collection

Woodnotes are expanding their range of products with apparel - with their first loungewear collection.

Designed for all
With its' boxy fit and gendefree design, the kimono is designed for inclusivity of bodies and people. Made to be comfortable.

Designed with sustainability in mind
The collection is made of locally sourced materials and the color selection is made through natural dyes. This is with the intent to conserve the enviroment and produce responsibly.

Designed for minimalism
The design is simple and timeless, where each piece is meant as a long-term investment in your wardrobe.

The Tuuli Kimono

The "TUULI" kimono is designed with a spacious, boxy fit, made from a soft and breathable material that ensures optimal comfort.

The fit can easily be adjusted to suit the individual customer's body shape with a practical fastening feature using a tie, making it versatile and user-friendly.
